

National Film and Television School (the “School”) Freedom of Information Publication Scheme

Publication Scheme

Part 1: Introduction

Adopting a publication scheme is a requirement of the Freedom of Information Act 2000. This Act promotes greater openness and accountability across the public sector by requiring all “public authorities” to make information available proactively through a publication scheme.

What is a publication scheme?

A publication scheme is a document outlining the information available from a public authority. Rather than being a list of individual items, it is a guide to the “classes” or types of information the institution is making a formal commitment to publish. The National Film and Television School has adopted the Information Commissioner’s model publication scheme and is therefore committed to publishing information in the classes it lists.

Accessing information covered by the publication scheme

The classes of information we publish are listed in Part 2 of the publication scheme. The majority of information can be downloaded from the National Film and Television School website <http://www.nfts.co.uk> and documents are also available in paper copy from the contacts indicated in the publication scheme. Publications are free unless otherwise stated. Alternative formats may be arranged by special request, but there may be a charge to cover production costs.

Information not covered by the publication scheme

Information not made available through the publication scheme may be requested. Requests should be made in writing and the National Film and Television School will normally have 20 working days to respond. A fee may be charged. Information subject to an exemption in the Act will not be released.

All applications and enquiries should be addressed to the Registrar.

Responsibility for the publication scheme

Overall responsibility for the National Film and Television School's publication scheme is held by the Registrar.

If you wish to request information

If the information you wish to request is about yourself, you can do so under the Data Protection Act 1998, this governs the processing of personal data (information relating to living individuals), please see the Data Protection Policy, which includes a request form to complete.

If the information is not about yourself, please check our publication scheme for the information you require before submitting a request.

If the information you require is not in our publication scheme, please contact the School in writing (either by post or email).

To help us manage your request, please include a description of the information you require and your contact details including an email address and/or postal address for us to send our response.

Please send your request for information to:

The Registrar
National Film and Television School
Beaconsfield Studios
Station Road
Beaconsfield
Bucks

or electronically to: foi@nfts.co.uk

Limits of disclosure

The School will disclose information wherever possible. However, in limited circumstances, for reasons including data protection or confidentiality, the School will not release information. All requests will be considered on their own merits and with consideration for public interest. In any case where information is refused, the School will contact to you to let you know why the requested information is not being provided.

Copyright

Information that is generated by the School and is included in the publication scheme may be reproduced for information, personal study and non-commercial purposes only. Permission to reproduce information in our publication scheme does not extend to any material, which is identified as being the copyright of a third party.

Complaints and appeals

If you are not satisfied with the way we have handled your request or with the reasons we have given for refusing to provide information, you have the right to appeal. Questions, comments or complaints should be sent to the Director of the National Film and Television School.
